Picton Dawn Chorus

Conservation Week

By Siobain Browning, PDC Coordinator

www.pictondawnchorus.nz

Email: info@pictondawnchorus.nz

This year, Conservation Week is being celebrated from 14 to 22 October and is all about showing your backyards some love and getting involved.

Picton Dawn Chorus, together with Conservation Kids New Zealand, is holding a Conservation Week event, "Trapping for all ages", on Saturday 14th October. This event is planned to demonstrate how Picton Pest Free is something everyone can help with, especially our youngsters who can participate to help ensure that in years to come native birds will be thriving around town. The sad fact is that many of our native species are fighting for survival because of the mammals that we humans brought to this country.

Families with children can register to check traps with one of our volunteers and discover what it is like to monitor a trap line.

It's a great chance to spend some time as a family, enjoying our beautiful outdoors while doing something valuable for the environment. Finding each trap is an exciting task for kids; they will see how the traps are cleaned, rebaited and re-set. Catches will be identified using a species ID chart and the kids can take part in the data collection process.

Trap checking will start around 9:30 am (depending on which trap line you are placed on). Register your family by contacting Siobain at info@pictondawnchorus.nz before 7 October. Your family will be allocated an appropriate line and a volunteer guide to take you on the walk, which will last around an hour.

After the trap-line checks there will be a Conservation Kids "Pest Special" with fun and games related to protecting our wildlife from introduced predators. Conservation Kids events are a fun and interactive way for kids to learn about the environment and encourage them to take action to protect their environment!

The "Pest Special" will start at 11am at the new EnviroHub at 3 Auckland Street. Everyone is welcome including those that choose not to do a trap line. There is no need to register for this part of the event.

You can enter Conservation Week competitions, and find other local activities by going to the DOC website at <http://www.doc.govt.nz/news/events/conservation-week/>

Ah! The Pristine Marlborough Sounds

By the QCC Journalist Team

Ah! The Marlborough Sounds. The pristine and sparkling water, the lush trees waving in the breeze. Such a place we live in! However, things aren't as perfect as they seem. We too thought we lived in a perfect environment until a group of us took part in the annual Picton Spring Clean on the 10th of September. Our small group of QCC students went out to four different beaches along the snout peninsula and the results were shocking.

We departed from the Picton Marina and arrived at our first beach, Bob's Bay. Here we quickly discovered there was no shortage of rubbish. Behind the toilet building, we even found a pile of completely full rubbish bags. Trust me, they smelled awful! Rubbish was found in all corners and spaces possible, lurking in hidden spots, clogging our breathtaking views with toxins.

Finding this rubbish opened our eyes to how lazy and inconsiderate people can be, as we cannot find the time to dispose of our own waste properly. There is a multitude of waste disposal facilities in and around Picton (even as easy as putting a box outside our gate), so why is this problem persisting? The fact a great deal of the rubbish was both old and expired showed us it is not just a modern millennial problem; it has always been an issue.

The solution is simple. Community participation. Fortunately, this is currently occurring, but it is a necessity to get everyone involved.

The environment is around for everyone to appreciate, so it becomes everyone's responsibility. It must be a community effort to ensure the environment is around for future generations to enjoy like we all have. The waste won't simply disappear itself. This is why events organised by the community are an incredible yet necessary opportunity. We could always sit here and complain there is rubbish, but by participating in clean-ups as a community, we will find the problem beginning to resolve.

Most of the rubbish we found was what you might expect, such as plastic bottles, bags and wrappers. However all these items are all still toxic to our marine ecosystem and wildlife. This rubbish is what we were expecting, but to our surprise we found much more.

We could all agree the most ironic and unexpected findings included; a door covered with the saying “Save the Oceans”; a United Fisheries Fish Bin, 4 unopened cans of ‘Export Gold’ dating back to 2006, a life ring from Sydney and a fishing rod. As surprising as these findings were, they are only a grain of sand compared to the bulk of the rubbish we collected. Polystyrene, plastic bags, cans, filled rubbish bags, plastic packaging and masses of treated timber contributed to the bulk of our findings and our team easily found kilograms of rubbish on each beach.

Above: Some of the rubbish collected

Members of the community are doing a phenomenal job already and it was a privilege for us to be part of it. It is an incredibly perspective changing experience which we would all highly recommend for community members of all ages to get involved in, it is never too early nor too late to aid our environment. Don't be the problem, but become part of the solution.

Māori Language Week at WBS...

Kia ora

Last week was special... any idea why? That's right it was Māori Language Week. We had lots of fun taking part in a range of māori based activities. In Kapa Haka we learnt a haka with the help of some QCC students. The college kids helped us a lot... and we soon got the hang of it. We also had Whea Lisa come in and teach māori games and words... that was very fun!

We designed a logo and wrote a story based on the legend of Te Wheke (one of the logo's will be selected to be the actual logo of our Te Wheke Akoranga Kahui Ako). We had Mrs Burgess (who speaks fluent māori) read us some māori myths and legends... it was extremely fun.

We think Māori Language Week is a good idea. What an informative week! We can't wait until it happens again!

Picton Junior Mountain Bike Track

The Picton Junior Mountain Bike Track will be officially open from Friday the 22nd September. The track has been designed and made with the help of Picton Trails.

The track is in the pine forest at the back of Queen Charlotte College. As the land is owned by the College you are asked that people kindly respect the area when using the tracks. Entry to the park is alongside the college, 50 metres up the road from the Pavillion car park.

Thank you to the Picton Flower Ladies who kindly sponsored the gate.

PICTON'S GREEN SCENE

Brought to you by Linda Thompson of Plastic Bag Free Picton and Picton Smart & Connected Environment working group.

I would love the world to do their bit to stop the practice of balloons ending up in the marine environment but I will settle on Picton. Please everyone will you think carefully about how you handle balloons and make sure they are not let go to kill our sea birds and sea creatures.

*Balloons will fly
Away they go
They look like food
To bird you know*

Tasty Times at the Library

Our Tasty Times cooking classes came together last week for this year's finale party. It was great for the two groups to share a fun afternoon of cooking activities. Team Awesomeness guessed 13/15 ingredients in the game –What's in the Soup? and also managed to get 10/10 for guessing What's in the Cans? that had their labels removed. Team Girls were the winners in the Blind Taste Test challenge.

It's been a wonderful year of learning about food and cultures from around the world and also being open to trying new tastes and ideas and working together. We look forward to running this programme again next year in the new library where we will have the community kitchen to really enhance the experience! So look out for our advertising in the New Year for children aged 7 years to Year 6.

It's not long now until the school holidays are upon us and we have some Spring Story and Craft activities prepared. All children are welcome and it's free. If you've got children staying with you over the holidays, why not bring them in to experience a different library to the one they may visit at home.

Ferry speed limit stopped shoreline damage

A decade after speed limits were imposed on ferry traffic in the Marlborough Sounds a marine biology report says shore life has recovered to the point where monitoring can be scaled back.

The Marlborough District Council began the monitoring 20 years ago when concerns were raised about the impact of fast ferries travelling through Tory Channel/Kura Te Au and Queen Charlotte Sound/Tōtaranui.

Council introduced a navigational bylaw in 2000 to limit boat speed and the height of vessels' bow waves, for the sake of safety and to reduce damage along the shoreline from wave action.

The latest report shows that, at most of 21 monitoring sites, shoreline erosion has either stabilised or returned to the state it was in before fast ferries began.

Council coastal scientist Dr Steve Ulrich says the findings show Council's intervention helped to save part of the Sounds ecosystem.

"The monitoring shows the resilience of the marine environment. Appropriate and far-sighted management can put ecosystems back on the road to recovery. These results are encouraging, but there is much more to do to restore the ecology of the Sounds," says Dr Ulrich.

Council has been advised that shoreline and biological monitoring can be reduced to a bi-annual programme but that it was important it be maintained as there was little long term research on intertidal zones elsewhere in New Zealand.

Waikawa Rate Payers Association

About 40 Waikawa residents got stuck in for the bay's spring clean last weekend, clearing rubbish and sprucing up the foreshore.

The working bee covered most of Waikawa, removing litter and cutting back vegetation before a community BBQ on the foreshore.

Councillor David Oddie says it was a great morning's work and it also gave the community a chance to get some resuscitation training with the defibrillator the community has purchased and placed at the launching ramp in case of emergency.

Council this year repaired the breakwater at the launching ramp, including fixing a seat on the rock wall.
