Picton Dawn Chorus

Stopping the Stowaways

By Siobain Browning, PDC Coordinator

The Queen Charlotte Sound is home to several predator free islands which house some of our rarest species. For example, Blumine Island is home to the endangered Tieke (South Island saddleback), Kakariki (Orange fronted parakeet) and Mohua (Yellowhead). These species are almost extinct on the mainland and the island, which is open to the public, is one of the few places where you are likely to see them. Keeping these islands free of predators is vital in the effort to protect the birds and all the other wildlife that is flourishing.

So, you care about our native birds and have a rat trap in your back garden. Great work! But are you sure that your boat is rodent free too? Here in Picton a lot of boats are stored in driveways and in gardens. Having permanent traps in your boat is valuable both for protecting your precious boat but also our precious wildlife. Did you know, your boat insurance might not cover you for rodent damage? Another good reason for getting some pest control on board.

When you are heading out to enjoy the wonderful Marlborough Sounds, make sure you check your gear before you go to ensure that everything is free from seeds, rodents and any other unwanted nasties. It might sound far-fetched and you're probably thinking "there couldn't possibly be a mouse in my chilly bin" but it really does happen! Sadly, there are far too many stories of stowaways reaching predator free islands – don't let your boat or gear be the one to give a stowaway safe passage.

If you need more traps for your garden and/or boat, come and see us at the mall on Friday 1st and Saturday 2nd December. Picton Dawn Chorus will have a stall at the Mariner's Mall from 10am til 3pm on both days selling discounted rat traps ($10) as well as Goodnature traps and accessories. If your A12 possum trap is out of lure, come along with the pottle and have it refilled for a gold coin donation.

Queen Charlotte College

What a year!

By Simon Williams (Deputy Principal)

How on earth are we supposed to keep up with all this? What a year it has been for all the reporters, here at Queen Charlotte College. Once again, we're nearly at the end of Term Four and we're all sat looking at each other wondering where the year has gone!

For the news crew, here, it's been a fantastic, fully full up year. We've had sport, drama, a newspaper to write, cultural performances, and we've had to fit some learning in there somewhere too. There have been some great articles from the crew in Picton Happenings and the College paper, The Endeavour Connection. Abigail wowed us with her pin-hole cameras; James amazed us with his 3-D printing escapades; Jack and Monica bowled us over with their wonderful sports writing; Jessica dazzled us with her Extravaganza entertainments and Hallie reminded us of the need to look after our environment with her writing about the clean-up in the Sounds.

School has been visited by a group of Japanese students from Osaka and has visited Hawaii! We have held sports exchanges with Garin and Golden Bay. We took teams on tournament and help Picton field cricket and football teams throughout the year. We have been involved with rehearsals and performances for the school Extravaganza and our Kapa Haka-fest too. The house competitions have kept everyone on their toes; made sure everyone has the chance to get involved and grown school camaraderie. The Kahui Akō competitions for logo design and story telling were keenly embraced; Manu Korero was a blast. And this is all before we even get to learning.

Achieving your personal best is always the aim at Queen Charlotte and I can certainly say I've seen nothing but that from the body of reporters we have grown over this year. Commitment to writing and commitment to being the best they can be has meant it has been a privilege for me to spend time with the news crew and watch them go about their year.

I've given them the fortnight off, this time...the students are all on camp, completing their NCEA examinations or involved with rehearsals for the panto (Oh yes they are!). It has given me the chance to pen a few words and let everyone know how grateful I am to be working with some of the wonderful young people of Picton and the Sounds.

Picton Community Pool

The Picton Community Pool opens its doors to the community from December 1st. This year's lifeguards have completed both their Lifeguard Training Course and a First Aid course in order to prepare for their summer roles. Ashleigh Rossiter, Ijah Humphrey, Jordan Hika, Matilda Dotti and Kristina Gibbs are all students at Queen Charlotte College and are keen and excited to commence their positions and serve the public.

The pool will be open from 3.30pm - 5.30pm week days and between 12.30pm – 5.30pm until the end of the school year, after which the pool will be open daily between 12.30pm and 5.30pm.

The Community Pool will again be overseen by local former educator, Tonya Cowlshaw, who now represents Summit Real Estate. She has generously offered to keep the public 'sun safe' this summer by donating the much needed poolside sunscreen.

Waikawa Bay School

'Road Safety Truck' visits WBS...

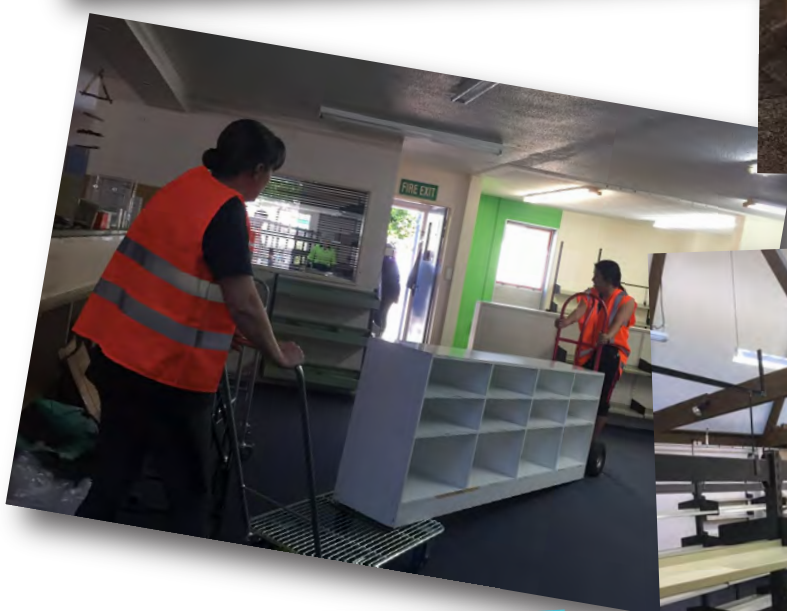

On Tuesday we had the 'Road Safety Truck' at Waikawa Bay School. They taught us about being safe around trucks and on the road. We got given a booklet and a truck magazine. We all got to sit in the drivers seat of the truck, Mia beeped the horn and it gave everyone a fright. We watched a video and got to play with little cars. It was lots of fun, fun, fun!

Let's Put Litter in its Place

New high-tech rubbish bins are being installed in Picton this week so the town can take part in a two-year national recycling trial.

Picton has been chosen as one of five trial sites across the country with the bins to be installed on Picton's High Street and the Foreshore.

The "Litter less, recycle more" project will test how people respond to the new technology rubbish and recycling bins. Along with Picton, other visitor centres like Rotorua and Queenstown will be getting the new bins.

The industry body which promotes recycling, The Packaging Forum, is installing the combined litter/ recycling bins which send out an alert when they need emptying. The new technology means litter bins can be emptied before they overflow and collection costs can be reduced as bins are emptied only when required.

The bin trial is part of a national litter awareness and behavioural change programme campaign which includes TV commercials featuring actors Lucy Lawless and Ian Mune and radio ads which will run over the summer with a message of encouragement to "Let's Put Litter in its Place...it's the way we do things around here."

Marlborough District Council is taking part in the national campaign; one other associated project already underway here is the Marlborough Litter Project, researching the way this district deals with litter and our attitudes to it.

Time to think about summer fire risk

There's been a lot of spring growth and, if the usual drying nor-westers arrive, that can mean a big fire risk come the height of summer.

Take extreme care with rural burn-offs; fires should never be lit in gusty conditions.

Remember that having a fire permit is not a legal defence against claims for fire damage and fire fighting costs – which can run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

If you own undeveloped property or wilderness areas with vegetation that could become a fire hazard, please act soon before mowing itself becomes a fire risk; sparks from mowers hitting metal objects, wire and stones are a regular cause of fires in the heat of Marlborough's summer.

If you're concerned about vegetation adjacent to your property, please contact Council phone: 03 520 7400.

Rural property owners should have a Rural Address Property Identification number at the gate. Emergency services rely on this guide to reach you as quickly as possible.

Council administers the RAPID numbers and all rural property owners are encouraged to be part of this system. There have been incidents of emergency services going to the wrong address where a property owner has tried to calculate their own number and displayed an inaccurate figure.
